N. B. The Heads of Lord North and Sir Fletcher Norton haven o connection with this Volume, but must be reserved to be bound up with the Parliamentary Proceedings.

☞ The Binder is desired to take notice, that there are two Half-Sheets printed with the signature S, at which place the Pages are printed wrong also: he must therefore put the Half-Sheet, ending p. 144. before that beginning p. 157.

The Sheet O. is also paged wrong, being 125 to 132, instead of 105 to 112.

It is hoped the candid Reader will excuse these errors, when the hurry of printing a Magazine is considered.

PEARL.

What think you of this?

PUBLISHER.

Why, Sir, in a word:—the public are not so blind to merit, as to need being told of any alteration in our plan.—The judicious choice of our Materials, the elegance of our Designs, and the excellence of our Engravings, have already attracted universal attention, and there is little doubt of our continuing to meet with applause for every addition that may deserve it;—with equal justice also may we expect their censure, for every inattention or neglect we are guilty of. Here, then, Mr. PEARL, it is, that a Publisher shou'd fix his standard: Let him make it his business to consult the taste of his readers, and he may be sure of meeting with a reward for his endeavours, nor needs a Preface, which at best exposes his vanity to the public, or boasts of that industry which it is but his duty to persist in. His life should be dedicated to the service of his friends, and not his book alone. However, that you may not be wholly disappointed in your expectations, and as the public may probably receive some little entertainment from our past conversation, I will endeavour to recollect it, and commit it to writing, and you shall give it to the public, as something by way of Preface.
